

Welcome to the fifth and final newsletter for the Erasmus+ funded GET THERE project. Our aim has been to create a first-class project for developing employability skills across the European Union. We met most recently in London for our fourth and final partner meeting in June 2017, with attendance by all the partner organisations involved – ASDAN, ISQ, CARDET, IEKEP, INFODEF and Diagrama (Europeace Youth). You can find different translations of this newsletter on the national pages of the website www.getthereproject.eu

More importantly, we also had our Final Project Conference in London as well at which we had a range of presentations at Europa House. These included case studies from the project, including trainers and beneficiaries, experts from other Erasmus+ projects, employers and partners in the project. It was a great day with some practical demonstrations of some of the project activities as well and a fitting way to celebrate the project achievements!

During 2017 we have been training external partners in our 'train the trainer' sessions as well as working directly with beneficiaries, using the content available from our Project Handbook. We have also finalised our competencies matrix available for each subject area, allowing full understanding of levels and learning outcomes in order to maximize the delivery and impact of the GET THERE Project overall and this available in English language with translations via the website. There will also be feedback on all activities carried out by each organisation.

Finally we are preparing a final project report from the National Agency, which will reflect the efforts and abilities of all partners involved in the project. The Agency was previously impressed by the work carried out, as well as the smooth-running of the Project. We hope the final report will receive similar approval and that the project's legacy will be long-lasting.

As ever, our website <https://getthereproject.eu> carries up-to-date news including the project leaflet and, most importantly, the Project Handbook which is ready to use. You will find our twitter feed is also promoting the project to all our international partners. For further information contact info@asdan.org.uk
